FILM SCREENINGS: New Documentaries on Indonesia

Location: 102 Moffitt Library

8:00 p.m. “Promised Paradise” (2006)
Directed by Leonard Retel Helmrich

This controversial documentary follows puppeteer Agus Nur Amal as he looks for the traces of the terrorists who masterminded the 2002 Bali bombings. The film’s focus on Nur Amal’s methods to talk about the Bali bombings, Osama bin Laden and the 9/11 attacks in the U.S. underscores the confusion and uncertainty of many Indonesians as they face the impact of home-grown radicalism and terrorism.

9:00 p.m. “The Year of Living Vicariously” [“Ada Apa Dengan Indonesia?”] (2005)
Directed by Amir Muhammad

In this entertaining and insightful film, Malaysian filmmaker Amir Muhammad uses a split screen to explore the state of Indonesian culture and politics, while recording the making of Riri Riza’s film “Gie” in 2004, shortly before the country’s first direct presidential elections. The film features informal discussions with the film’s crew and cast and presents an intimate portrait of artistic people grappling with their new world, as they also remember and carry forward stories and traditions from Indonesia’s past.
